Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Friday 03 Sep 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
West brightening up on Friday, east staying rather cloudy.

Today:
Cloudy start in many places. Sunny spells developing in the west, but some cloud lingering across parts of eastern Scotland. Northern Isles brighter than of late with a few passing showers.

Tonight:
Some late brightness in the west. Otherwise a cloudy night and mainly dry night, a little light and patchy rain possible in the far east.

Saturday:
Mostly dry although with a lot of cloud around, best chance of brightness in the northwest.

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
Dry for most of Sunday, rain spreading east across most areas later. Dry early next week, feeling warm in any sunshine.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.